To Whom It May Concern:

I am delighted to present this letter on behalf of Jack Agnew, a standout student whom I had the pleasure of teaching in Projects in Digital Composition at the University of Pittsburgh. Throughout the fall semester, Jack exhibited exceptional proficiency in our interdisciplinary class, which integrated HTML, expository filmmaking, and animation design. His ability to learn new tools, synthesize information, take risks, and the overall quality of his work, distinguished him as one of the top performers in the course.

A self-starter, Jack possesses the confidence to tackle new challenges and the resourcefulness to seek out additional support. During my class he learned to work with HTML and CSS without having had any background experience. We all benefitted from his broad range of expertise, particularly in the realm of audio and photography.

Moreover, Jack possesses a remarkable ability to engage others in the creative process. By exhibiting both focus and warmth, Jack helps others succeed. This quality was apparent in our deliberative workshop space, where students bring weekly development projects for critique. He works well with feedback, demonstrating a willingness to revise his work to meet the expectations of instructor/audience.

I really, really enjoyed working with Jack. As a critical thinker, he consistently goes above and beyond, asking insightful questions and seeking clarification to ensure a thorough understanding of project objectives. Jack's aptitude for creative endeavors and his remarkable interpersonal skills make him exceptionally well-suited for the dynamic and challenging field of radio.

Sincerely,
